

HEAD RESUMES ATTACK UPON WATER USERS

"It doesn't sound like common sense," he asserted.

"G. W. Sherwood, who never was known to favor anything anyone else proposed, being somewhat like Mr. Finkle, says there never will be any more floods. I don't know where he got his information. He doesn't say where it came from. He just makes the statement. But I believe he's wrong."

If another flood like that of 1916 should occur, the damage would be measured in millions of dollars, Head declared, showing that floods were periodical occurrences.

SAYS FINKLE MISTAKEN

Taking up the arguments regarding the upper and lower dams in the Santa Ana canyon, Head repeated that Finkle was mistaken in thinking that the dam was to be built at the Sulphur Slides site.

"Sulphur Slides is about a mile east of where the dam is to be. And that is about as close to the truth as Mr. Finkle ever has got in this matter," Head recalled. "I don't know who the attorneys are, but they are mistaken. They overlooked recent amendments and supreme court decisions. We'd have to pay a heavy tax burden at that site, not for 10 years, but forever."

In launching his address, Head predicted that in 1930, under present conditions, water would be available for lawns and flowers only for one hour daily, that in 1932 it could be used on only two days a week, that in 1935 there would be none for this purpose at all and that in 1940 water would be in the city mains for domestic use for but two hours a day. In rural sections there would be hundreds of acres of dried up groves and thousands of acres going to ruin, he predicted.

The population of Santa Ana would have dropped from 40,000 to 20,000 he said.

"They have got some of us rather panicky about the Mediterranean fruit fly. But unless we do something about water there won't be enough oranges here to keep a self-respecting Medfly here two minutes."

Below Sea-Level Now

Right now Santa Ana is pumping water from below sea-level, 90 to 100 feet below the ground surface, Head said. The S. A. V. I. near Olive is pumping from below sea level, he declared.

"When the pressure from water below is reduced just so far salt water will come in. Few of us realize needed in which to study the proposal, Head recalled.

"Why, bless you, folks, we've been working for years on this project. And just because some people have been going around asleep, should we lie down and do nothing now? The supervisors and their advisory committee met monthly with Paul Bailey, flood control engineer. And all the developments were published in the papers week after week and month after month. That argument has flattened out and if we can't educate the people regarding the plan in the time allowed, we never can."

Didn't Make Survey

"Next they said we had the dam in the wrong place. Mr. Lippincott advised the Prado site. But he didn't make a survey. He made a report based on government publications. He said Prado was one place where a dam might be built. Paul Bailey got down to bridge tacks. He was going to recommend a place to build a dam and he wanted to be sure he was right."

Head said the fact was that actual construction at the upper site would cost about $2,000,000 less than at the lower site. But he declared that condemnation of property, taxes which would have to be paid to Riverside and San Bernardino counties, purchase of water rights, relocation of the railroad and highways and rebuilding of bridges would make the final cost much greater.

Finkle says attorneys have advised him that the county would not have to pay taxes to the other counties if the dam were built there. I don't know who the attorneys are, but they are mistaken. They overlooked recent amendments and supreme court decisions. We'd have to pay a heavy tax burden at that site, not for 10 years, but forever."

In launching his address, Head predicted that in 1930, under present conditions, water would be available for lawns and flowers only for one hour daily, that in 1932 it could be used on only two days a week, that in 1935 there would be none for this purpose at all and that in 1940 water would be in the city mains for domestic use for but two hours a day. He reached for her purse, in which she carried a 41-calibre derringer, a gift for Snook.

"Bailey has proved to be all wool and a yard wide as an engineer and as courteous, honorable and capable man. I'm willing to trust Bailey's judgment rather than that of Irvine and Finkle," the speaker declared.

FINKLE AGAIN ANSWERS HEAD IN ORANGE TALK

Regarding the assertion that he had called the dam site "Sulphur Slides," Finkle said, "I never have called the site Sulphur Slides. People have called it by this name because it is anchored in Sulphur Slides. I have called it 'Esperanza dam' and Esperanza is the Spanish word for 'hope.'

Expressing surprise that the opposition had said that he was the only engineer who had condemned the lower site as the place for a dam, the engineer asked why the names of J. B. Lippincott, and Burton M. Jones, representing Arthur E. Morgan, had been left out.

Irvine Reviews Head Remarks

In a preliminary talk, James Irvine Jr., declared he had joined the Water Users' Association after it had been formed by S. H. Lucas.

Irvine reviewed remarks made by Head at what he called "a get-together meeting" in Orange, Tuesday night.

Irvine declared that if they voted for the bonds, Orange county residents would be making the same mistake Los Angeles voters made in accepting the Los Angeles flood control bonds.

"There is no guarantee," said Irvine, "as to where the money is to be spent and the supervisors can move the funds around and have a wonderful party."

Irvine said that it seemed queer that Head could straddle the fence and accept retainers from both sides, the water company and the flood control district.

The speakers were introduced by S. H. Lucas.

Judging by the attitude of the diplomats concerned in the negotiations, apparently there is considerable ground for optimism.

Four Attempts To Shatter Aviation Records Arranged

LOS ANGELES, June 21.—(UP)—Four attempts to break existing world aviation records are scheduled to start here next week.

Capt. Frank Hawks plans to leave at 2 a. m. Monday in an effort to break his present transcontinental non-stop record. His schedule calls for a flight from Los Angeles to New York, a short stop for refueling there and a return flight to Los Angeles Tuesday.

Lee Schoenholz was to fly to San Diego today to test his compasses preparatory to making a non-stop flight similar to that of Captain Hawks.

Loren W. Mendell, of Fort Worth, Texas, and Pete Reinhart of Salem, Oregon, announced that they will start Tuesday in an attempt to break the refueling endurance flight record. Leo Nomis and Maurice Morrison will try for the same record Wednesday.

WITNESS IDENTIFIES 2 ROBBERY SUSPECTS

SAN DIEGO, June 21.—(UP)—The second day of the preliminary hearing of the Agua Caliente money car robbery suspects was to be continued here today with two of the suspects positively identified as occupants of the bandit car.

Martin B. Colson and Lee Cochran, charged with the murder of the money car driver, were positively identified in the court room late yesterday by Frank D. Hartell.

Hartell saw the bandits change from the car in which the robbery was accomplished to another machine. Asked while on the witness stand if he could recognize either of the men he saw in the court room, he pointed to Cochran and Colson.

DR. MILLS WINS NEW HONOR AT ROSE SESSION

"A friend of roses" was the appealing title bestowed upon a Santa Ana resident famous for his gardens, the Dr. E. M. Mills, 2429 Poinsettia street, at a recent meeting of the Syracuse (N. Y.) Rose society, a unit of the American Rose society, of which Dr. Mills is president emeritus.

"You may rest assured," president's message said, "there is no intention on the part of the federal government to transgress the limits of the law. The matter as mentioned in the city council message has referred to the treasury department for action."

At the same time George Schall, city clerk, received a message from U. S. Senator Thom Schall, to whom a second memorial was held June 18, with everyone interested in beautifying the community, asked to join and visit a spot that is rapidly becoming famous for its choice specimens of the "queen of flowers."

The same time a memorial garden was started with the slips of roses of every known variety tendered by flower lovers interested in the project, in memory of garden lovers and friends. In commenting editorially on the society and its ambitious plans for the Mills rose garden in a recent issue, the Syracuse Herald said, "One of the most beautiful sights in this or any city, is the Mills rose garden now in bloom in Thornden, and it will be only a little while until thousands will be enjoying the fragrance and the variegated colors of the hundreds of varieties of roses cultivated there."

"Not long ago the land adjacent to the garden was a bog, slowly filling with the refuse dumped there by the city. Now it too, has been filled and graded and is ready for planting. Another year and it will be in blossom. The new garden will double the expanse of bloom and banish the last un-

Emmett J. White, border patrolman, the city council today received a letter from President Hoover in answer to a request for relief from "arrogantlessness" on the part of government border agents.

"You may rest assured," president's message said, "there is no intention on the part of the federal government to transgress the limits of the law. The matter as mentioned in the city council message has referred to the treasury department for action."

To the Santa Ana rosarians given full credit for the starting of the garden which bears his name, and for the untiring in adding to the beauty of the world. Santa Anans who visited the gardens around Mills' home on Poinsettia street have been given some credit of his skill with roses, for the finest and most colorful of them are there practically throughout the year.

600,000 MAIL PIECES SLATED FOR DISPATCH

An increase of over 100,000 letters is expected this month over the same period of time last year according to a statement made today by T. E. Stephenson, postmaster.

June, 1928, saw 500,000 letters go through the local office. According to Stephenson, 600,000 will be handled in the office this month.

The office has been averaging 550,000 letters a month for the past nine months. This does not include the months of November and December when the Christmas rush boosts the number to approximately one million.

Due to the extensive state and national campaign to enforce the proper addressing of envelopes, the number of dead letters to find their way to the Santa Ana post office has been reduced the past year from 40 to 300 letters a month.

With the exception of foreign letters, none of these are advertised, and very few ever reach their destination. The local office averages four foreign dead letters a month, Stephenson declared.

A WORD OF COMFORT Do you recall the Masters parable of the Pharisee and the Publican?

The Pharisee spent his time in the public, reminding God of all the good things he had done; the Publican sought forgiveness for his failures, and strength for renewed endeavor.

In your hours of loneliness and despair, you will become reminded of strength to endure not by recounting how worthy you are of God's care and help, but by drawing near in prayer for cleansed motives, deeper love, more earnest effort and greater faith.

God can and will give what you need when you come in that spirit.

DEATH CALLS ORANGE COUNTY FRUIT GROWER

A. L. Cotant, pioneer citrus grower of the Tustin district, died this morning at the family home, First street and Glenn avenue, Tustin, at the age of 66 years. Arrangements for the funeral had not been completed today, but it is probable services will be held at the Smith and Tuthill chapel Monday.

Mr. Cotant was the father of Charles Cotant, manager of the Bank of Italy, and prominent in financial circles here for many years; Mrs. Louise Baade, wife of Harry Baade, city ticket agent here for the Santa Fe Railway company, and Miss Margaret Cotant, who has just graduated from the state university at Berkeley. Yes, Wanda Hawley likes people. The personality that captures admirers in the theater is no less charming off the silver screen and the popular movie star is making many friends during her visit in Santa Ana.

Mr. Cotant came to the Tustin district from Elko, where he was a successful cattle raiser, 31 years ago, locating on acreage purchased from W. S. Bartlett, and on part of which the family residence is still located.

After the retite actress completes her present tour she will make a song picture in Honolulu for the World Travel and Cinema corporation. She will be here until Monday.

Four years ago in an interview she said that she believed in talking pictures and not only talking pictures, but in colored photography.

"I believe the talking pictures will become perfected in mechanism and I do not think they will or can, hurt the stage," she said. "It is too old a tradition. People want variety."

"I advise young women to try to enter the theater business and to start in the acting profession, if they have real ability," she said.

"But it is heart breaking to see extras come to windows day after day and be turned away, because there is nothing for them," the actress declared. "I wish I had enough money. I'd seek out those with talent and give them a chance."

JULY PLAY IS 'WHAT IS BAPTISM?' TOPIC THIS EVENING

Speaking to the largest audience that has yet assembled at this series of meetings, Ernest Beam of Long Beach, spoke last night at the Southside Church of Christ on the subject, "The Means of Salvation."

Evangelist Beam said: "The Bible teaches us that we are saved by grace. The mistake that many of us make is to think that because we are saved by grace there is nothing else that enters into the scheme of redemption. Paul says also that we are saved by faith; that we are saved by the blood of Jesus; that we are saved by the gospel. Peter says that we are saved by baptism, and James informs us that we are saved by works."

The evangelist will speak tonight on "What Is Baptism?" according to announcement made today by J. W. Saunders, pastor.

Mr. Vandermast does not advocate one variety of tree all over the city but different trees on different streets. He mentioned Colorado Springs as having one man at the head of the tree system who has entire charge of the planting and selecting of young trees. As a result, this city, about the same size as Santa Ana, is noted for its beautiful tree lined streets.

"The trees and streets of a city are its show windows," he said. A tourist and potential resident is impressed by the outward appearance of a city and will pick it for a home on the basis of beauty, largely the result of trees. We are in competition with all the other cities of Southern California,

MAN HELD FOR VIOLATION OF
NEW FIRE LAW

The first arrest of the season by U. S. forest service officers for violation of the county ordinance for the control of fire menace in certain portions of the county was reported here today by District Ranger J. K. Munhall.

"The districts under our supervision are extremely dry this summer and we are going to be very strict in the enforcement of all ordinances and regulations for the prevention of fire hazards," Munhall, whose headquarters is maintained at Corona. "We have already had several bad fires as a result of carelessness and failure to conform with the regulations on the part of visitors to the hill regions, and we are warning the public at large to be very careful if they come into the restricted districts."

E. J. Jensen, of Wilmington, was the first person arrested this season. The arrest was made by Munhall when Jensen was found smoking a cigar in Silverado canyon. Munhall was in Justice Morrison's court today to arrange a date for arraigning Jensen.

"We are going to insist that all cabin owners observe the rule requiring that all grass, undergrowth, shrubbery and weeds be cleared within a distance of 30 feet from the cabin," the forest service officer stated. "They have been warned and we will begin making arrests next week of all who had failed to comply. We had a bad fire that swept some 650 acres including some timber land in the San Jacinto mountains near San Bernardino early this month that was caused solely because a cabin owner had failed to make the 30-foot clearance required."

The no smoking rule in the restricted areas in the mountains is in effect from May to October inclusive, Munhall stated. The district over which Munhall has supervision comprises parts of Riverside, Orange and San Diego counties. A force of 82 men operates in the service under Ranger Munhall.

Court Notes

A petition for letters of administration in the estate of the late Justice Weide, who died April 11, was filed today by L. A. Weide. The petition stated that the estate did not exceed $7500 in value. Heirs listed included Henry Weide and Pauline Weide, Santa Ana, and L. A. Weide, Anaheim.

Claiming that a judgment for $1404.60 secured in 1924 against W. L. Lowe and Mae E. Lowe had not been paid, Harry E. Fisher today brought suit against the Lowes seeking to collect the judgment through the courts.

Claiming that the defendants had defaulted in making payments on a promissory note, Wilfred L. Farmer today brought suit against W. H. H. Hunt and Elizabeth Hunt, asking judgment for $355.

Clarence Brown spent a number of years as an automobile engineer and salesman before he ever had any idea that there was a future for him in the cinema racket.

Johnny Mack Brown is almost as well remembered by some for his exploits on the gridiron as for his work before the movie cameras. He was a halfback on the University of Alabama eleven for three years and is one of the few sport notables ever to make the grade in celluloidia.

Leroy Meyers today pleaded not guilty in superior court to a charge of issuing a bank check with intent to defraud. He will be tried on July 11. Meyers waived his right to a jury trial.

Andrew Paeiril will be tried again on July 29 on a charge of selling liquor. Paeiril's trial just completed ended with the jury failing to agree on a verdict. The case was referred to the master calendar for resetting.

EXPENSES FOR RECREATION IN 1928 RECORDED

By ELWOOD SQUIRES
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

(Special to The Register)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., June 21.—(UPI)—California—the land of play and sunshine, once more lived up to its name when municipalities in the state spent $9,591,000 for playgrounds, band concerts, parks, celebrations and the like in 1928.

Reports compiled by State Comptroller Ray L. Riley reveal that Santa Ana spent $17,348.33 of this total to give her citizens the facilities to enjoy life in the golden west.

California has one of the highest health records and lowest infantile death rates in the United States and it is contended that the state's climate and spirit of play is one of the outstanding reasons for this abundance of health, wealth and happiness.

San Francisco and Los Angeles were neck and neck in expenditures of this type in 1928. The former spent $2,552,791.23 and the latter $2,591,207.27 for recreational purposes alone.

Pasadena came to the fore this past year with a total of $481,764 spent in recreation and Santa Monica, a comparatively small city, outdid many of its larger sisters with a total of $221,143 to enable its citizens to enjoy California's famed climate.

Parks and trees consumed most of the moneys paid out for amusement of Californians, according to Riley's report, with music, celebrations and the cost of playing host to visiting delegations and conventions not the least of the expense.

Of the 270 municipalities in the state, all but 57 of them have spent something for amusement of the populace, ranging from millions to as low as $1.25. Fort Bragg has the distinction of the new record for low expenditure, the report showing that the $1.25 went for "playground upkeep."

Riley's figures show the cities as a whole expended about $600,000 more in 1928 than they did in 1927 for recreation.

Says Manicuring Is Perilous Job

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 21.—Miss Billie Thompson, 18, spent three weeks learning to be a manicurist, but one day of practice of her chosen profession was enough and she retired for life.

Almost her first "prospect" got rough. As he entered a barber chair she suggested a manicure. When he replied in the negative that she reached for his hand to check him up "just as I had been taught to do," she told police.

"Then he whirled the chair and kicked me," she said. "I fell and he grabbed me by the leg and held me in an embarrassing position."

She quit manicuring and is studying to be a stenographer.

1362 POUNDS IN ALL

There's nothing small in the West family of Los Angeles, at least not in appearance. Papa J. T. West balances the scales at 282 pounds, and Mama West weighs 210. Bushy-haired Bernard, just 16, above with the ukulele, weighs 344 pounds, but Leonard, two years his senior, holds the family diadem with 415 pounds. Jean, extreme left, is 4 and weighs 75 pounds, while 2-year-old Ann weighs 36 pounds. Just ponderous personages, that's all.

ROBBERY EXCUSE LEADS TO PRISON

MEMPHIS, Tenn., June 21.—Thomas William "Bill" Corzine, 20, had only 40 cents to spend on a date with his best girl—but it cost him 25 days in jail when his "perfect alibi" fell flat.

After "perfecting" his alibi, he rushed up the steps of her home. "I've been robbed," he told her. "A big negro took all my money and my watch."

"It's a shame," she said and called police despite his protests of "It wouldn't do any good."

Detectives who knew him recalled he did not have a watch. Also he couldn't remember details of the "robbery" clearly. He was arrested and fined $25 on disorderly conduct charges. When he couldn't pay he was sent to the workhouse.

Discussion Of County Flood Control Program

Bonds Opposed By S. H. Finley

Editor Register: It was my intention to avoid any public discussion of the flood control bond issue. I find from recent conversations that my attitude on the question is quite generally misunderstood and incorrectly reported. In justice to myself and the welfare of the county, in which I have a deep interest, I now feel at I should plainly state my position.

Since I am not connected with any individual or group advocating or opposing the proposed program, I trust that what I may say will be accepted as my personal honest convictions representing myself alone.

While a member of the board of supervisors, I had a small part in the activities looking to a flood control and water conservation program. There being no fixed date as to what, if anything, could be done along that line, the supervisors, after careful consideration of the qualifications of various engineers, unanimously decided to employ Mr. J. B. Lippincott to make an investigation and recommend some plan for accomplishing the desired result.

After a careful study of the problems he filed a report recommending the construction of a dam at the location spoken of in recent discussions as the upper Prado site.

Opposition from some interests as to the selection of this location and Mr. Paul Bailey was employed to make a new survey and report. He made a careful survey and filed report, which was approved by a board of consulting engineers, in which he made the following statement regarding the upper site recommended by Mr. Lippincott (see page 19 of report):

Topographically the upper Prado reservoir is the most attractive of all sites in the lower gorges, because large capacity can be obtained with a dam of low height. The desired capacity of 180,000 cubic feet requires a dam only 93 feet high. Other construction features are favorable for reasonable costs, and the geologic examination shows that a safe dam may be constructed there.

There seems to be no difference of opinion among prominent engineers as to the fact that the upper site is the better location for the dam and reservoir to serve the purposes which are usually expected of them. From this point on is where there is wide difference of opinion among engineers and others. The flood control engineers hold that possible loss by evaporation, poaching by surrounding land owners, suppression of springs and legal difficulties more than counterbalance the favorable features of the upper Prado dam and reservoirs. Other engineers, equally capable and possibly with more practical experience in dam construction and water problems in Southern California claim that these fears are without foundation.

I have made a careful study, as far as I was able, of the physical facts presented by Mr. Lippincott and Mr. Bailey in their published reports to the board of supervisors, which in the main harmonize and I assume to be correct.

Relying solely on these reports for data, I am unable to arrive at any other conclusion but that the fears have been unduly magnified. It is not being possible to discuss the objections to the upper site, within the reasonable bounds of a newspaper article, I will confine myself to a brief statement of a few points which led me to my conclusion.

First: "Suppression of rising water by accumulated silt."

A prominent proponent of the bond issue was quoted as saying that it would require 600 years to fill the reservoir with silt. I do not believe it even would entirely fill, because the gates through the dam at stream level always permitting a large flow of water to pass would likely be sufficient to keep the channel cut to its present gradient and largely transport silt in suspension on through the dam. Assume that two inches of silt would be the average annual settlement over the entire surface, any voter between this time and election day can visualize to himself what would be the effect of silt accumulation.

Reconstruct the conditions at the reservoir should a dam be built, by placing a common bath tub to represent the reservoir, 50 feet below a tank of water which would represent the source of the spring water, connect the tank by a pipe to the outlet in the bottom of the bath tub, admit a small stream of water from the tank to the tub, at the same time run water heavily laden with silt, similar to Santa Ana river water, until the silt settles to a depth of two inches, draw off the water with a siphon from the tub to represent the annual emptying of the reservoir and see what happens. The water will continue to run from the spring-tank as long as there is any water in it and without appreciable decrease. Repeat the process until the tub is full of silt, and still there will be no noticeable decrease in flow from the tank-spring.

Second: "Loss by evaporation." If silt would depress spring water it certainly would prevent evaporation. Objections 1 and 2 cannot both be correct.

Third: Permit reservoir water to enter under adjoining lands.

The answer to this can be found on plates VIII and IX, pages 20 and 21 of the report which shows that elevation of underground water rises rapidly in all directions from the reservoir except downstream. Also the table on page 12 shows that during the last nine years only for one year would the water in the reservoir have been as much as 22 feet deep and then only over a small area in the lowest part which could not have had any measurable effect outside of the reservoir lands.

The only year within the last 45 when any water would likely have been stored outside of the reservoir was in 1916, about which the flood control engineers report on page 15 as follows:

"In this season (1916) water would have been in the top half of the reservoir for 13 days."

It is barely possible that for these 13 days the entrance of water from surrounding area would have been slightly retarded by the escape of water from the reservoir. That condition only increases the capacity of the reservoir and stores water which otherwise would escape to the sea.

I do not believe anyone would be justified in building up a use for this water for 13 days once in 30 years. It would immediately return to the river as the reservoir was emptied.

Fourth: Legal complications.

There will be possible legal complications in either case.

If the lower dam is built below the intakes of the S. A. V. I. and A. U. W. Co. canals there will be the danger of legal complications between the small minority who use water from these canals and the great majority in cities and county depending on pump water alone, from fear that the dam may serve to divert water into the canals that belongs to the land owners who pump their supplies lower down.

The dam at the upper site with the proposed under surface by-pass and more surface openings and no diversions to interfere with will leave the natural flow practically undisturbed.

I am of the opinion if this county owned the 4000 acres not now owned in the Upper Prado site by the S. A. V. I. Co. and A. U. W. Co. that it would be of infinite value to those companies and every owner of a pumping plant, in the protection it would give to our water rights.

It would eliminate 100 or more adverse owners of land from which we get a large part of water supply.

From data on page 12 of engineer's report it will be found that the average annual runoff for the last 9 year period represents less than 1-3 of an inch of rainfall spread over the whole county area which is paying the bill.

These figures would be increased somewhat by flood seasons which occur once in 25 or 30 years.

Think it over when considering to what extent we should go in financial conservation.

(Signed) S. H. FINLEY.

between $300 and $450 per acre foot.

Santa Ana has already obligated itself to the extent of $1,350,000 to provide Colorado river water for its full needs for the future. If the proposed program goes through Santa Ana taxpayers will pay $1,500,000 of the cost in addition to interest.

That is a burden too heavy to bear for benefits received and would retard the undertaking of any major project in this city or county for 25 years.

It would effect other cities and communities in like proportion.

I am in favor of flood control with incidental conservation, but on a same basis.

I am of the opinion if this county owned the 4000 acres not now owned in the Upper Prado site by the S. A. V. I. Co. and A. U. W. Co.

that it would be of infinite value to those companies and every owner of a pumping plant, in the protection it would give to our water rights.

How the cooking tests

were conducted

Slowly, carefully tasting as they went

WOMEN of the United States will be interested in knowing how the now famous cooking tests were recently conducted in New York by four famous cooking experts.

Vegetable foods were chosen and cooked in many ways, because vegetables are so important to the balanced diet. The experts were experienced in discriminating shades of flavor. Not more than three vegetables were cooked and tested at one time in order that the sense of taste should not be blunted. This explains why the tests had to be carried over such a long period of time.

In every case, vegetables cooked in little water with the addition of a dash of sugar won unanimously.

This, at first, might strike some as surprising, but it must be remembered that it is not the purpose of the small amount of sugar to make the vegetables taste sweet. Sugar is used here as a seasoning, and it is perhaps the greatest seasoning of all. It develops the natural, delicate flavors of the vegetables just as it does of fruits, cereals, meats, gravies and soups.

Encourage variety and you encourage health for every member of your family. Serve at least two cooked vegetables a day in addition to a raw vegetable salad. Serve at least two fruits a day. Serve milk desserts. Then make the balanced diet so attractive that everyone will welcome it. Good food promotes good health. The Sugar Institute.

Discussion Of County Flood Control Program

Says Cost To Be Multiplied

DEAR SIR:

In reply to some of the statements current on the street regarding my stand on the present flood control issue, I wish to state that at the time the consultants were here I as a member of the committee of the Orange County Engineers' club, was called in to approve the plans. I expressed doubt as to the advisability of depending upon the sheet steel piling for a cut-off under the dam. At that time there was no plan for grouting or concrete to bed rock and after my objection to the plan the grouting was added and was declared, by the consultants, feasible. On this point I am sure Paul Bailey will agree. Since having time to consult engineers and contractors, who have had experience in the construction of coffer dams with sheet steel piling, I find that it will be practically impossible to drive the piling down through the blanket of boulders, shown by the test holes, lying upon bedrock. Now Mr. Bailey says they will jet these piles through the boulders and I say, if he does, his unit cost of $2.80 per foot of wall for driving will be multiplied several times because each pile cannot be driven to bedrock at one driving, but the entire section across the river channel must be driven together each pile a few inches or at most a foot or two at a time. I further state that they will not know whether they are on a boulder or bedrock.

I again refer to Mr. Bailey for corroboration and I know Paul Bailey well enough to be sure he will acknowledge the truth, that I made the statement not once but several times, that moving the location of the Santa Ana river dam from Prado where a 93 foot dam would be required, to the lower site as shown in the plans, where a 155 foot dam would be necessary,

As regard to remarks made several times in public meetings by my good friend Horace Head. Every man in Orange county who knows Horace Head grants that he is a shrewd attorney and a speaker who has made a study of mob psychology and remembers the adage in law, "when you have a weak case abuse the man on the other side."

Yours respectfully,

Bond Interest Held Too High

On page 12 of Engineer Bailey's report, the volume of run-off in excess of 1000 second feet for the nine year period, 1919-20 to 1927-28 is given as 121,500 acre feet, or a yearly average of 13,500 acre feet.

Judge L. F. Coburn, chairman of the flood-control committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce, stated in his written report which was prepared through the assistance of the engineers and office of the Anaheim Union Water company and the S. A. V. I. district, and also Engineer Bailey's office, that an acre foot of water was found to be worth, over a period of years, $6.00 per acre foot, therefore 13,500 acre feet of water at $6.00 per acre foot would be $81,000 per annum during the past nine years that would have been saved if the Yorba-Sulphur Slide dam, as proposed, had been in place January 1, 1919.

The interest on the $16,500,000 bond issue for one year is $825,000. Add to this the 10 cent tax rate for maintenance and you have an annual expenditure of over $1,000,000 per annum in order to save $81,000 per annum, not to mention the additional sum for retirement of the principal.

Discussion Of County Flood Control Program

Questions And Answers

Why was the Lower Prado site selected?

It is unnecessary to selected as a unit of the Hyde to form the RCA program, scheduled to be broadcast from 8 to 9 o'clock tonight through NBC system stations including KFI.

The German number, taken from his identical music to "Henry VIII," is the opening orchestra selection in the "World of Music and Letters" section. Two Saint-Saens compositions complete the instrumental music in this period. Max Dolin will conduct the RCA orchestra.

John Warren will be heard as the baritone soloist, singing "Estrellita" and Novello's "A Page's Road Song."

"Other Universes and Stellar Cycles" will be Hyde's theme as he talks on the "Wonders of the Sky."

10,000 CYCLISTS HONOR DEAD

Nearly 10,000 cyclists, many of whom had ridden all night from the extremes of England and Wales, gathered on a recent Sunday morning before the National Cyclists' memorial at Meriden, believed to be the exact center of England. About 3000 of the cyclists were girls, and most of them wore cycling breeches.

VISION SERIES OF SEADROMES ACROSS OCEAN

BY PAUL W. WHITE

United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, June 21.—(UP)—Perhaps progress can be measured largely in terms of safety and speed in the development of transportation and communication. If that be true there is at present under construction a device which if successful is destined to mean a breathtaking advance in civilization.

It is a "Seadrome," a synthetic island which within a year will be anchored half way between New York and Bermuda. Fleet passenger planes would speed to this artificial oasis, rest, then race off to a real and earthly island.

But the imagination of E. R. Armstrong, the inventor and designer, does not stop there. He foresees a day when eight seadromes regularly spaced across the Atlantic would bring New York within 38 hours of Paris and London.

He goes further. Eventually 18 of these giant 'dromes, constructed and placed at a cost of "only" $50,000,000 would link the land air-lines of every country to the United States, would revolutionize world shipping and would bring to America for the first time commercial supremacy of the seas.

Armstrong, a technical engineer, is convinced that his plane should not be labelled dreams.

The key to future commerce," he told the correspondent in an interview, "is through the air. Either airships or airplanes will supply the answer to the shipping problems of succeeding generations. I put my faith in the heavier-than-air machines first on the basis of cost and second on the basis of adaptability."

"And the only way that planes can fly safely across the ocean is in short hops so that the pilots can have the benefit of the radio beam and definite, exact weather information."

Limitless Resources

Armstrong is not alone in his views. His seadrome system is backed by a number of wealthy men identified with General Motors and du Pont interests. If the first 'drome proves practicable he declares the resources at his command will be limitless.

Thus there is a good deal of activity at Fishing Creek, in Delaware Bay, seven miles northwest of Cape May. There the first seadrome, which already has been given a name, "Langley," is being constructed. When it is completed, which will be either next winter or next spring, it will be towed out to sea to a point 385 miles southeast of New York and there anchored.

The cost of each seadrome is estimated at $1,750,000 and into its making goes 10,000 tons of iron and steel. From the air it will look like an oblong table, set for two, and with no center-piece. It will

PLACENTIA

PLACENTIA, June 21.—The American Legion auxiliary will hold a sale of home-cooked food Saturday morning at the Foss market. Tuesday evening the auxiliary and the Legion will have a steak dinner at Irvine park at 6:30 o'clock.

Dr. Beatrice McMullen will be the camp nurse to accompany the Girl Reserves to Camp Osceola. Dr. McMullen attended the meeting at Corona Del Mar at which leaders of the Y. W. C. A. and two representatives from each of the county organizations were present. At this meeting plans were made for the girls' summer camp, which will be open August 6-18.

Miss Annie Peterson has returned home from U. C. L. A. and is spending the summer with her mother.

coming with her when the latter returned from the state osteopathic convention last week. Another guest who is expected to arrive soon at the home of Dr. McMullen is her cousin, Mrs. Clarence Meyer, and her three children and their Chinese nurse. Mrs. Meyer has spent the winter with her parents in Buffalo, N. Y., and is now on her way to Hong Kong where her husband, who is an employee of the Standard Oil company, is stationed. Mrs. Antonette Nenno is assisting in entertaining her daughter's guests.

Mrs. Lora Butzbach gave an account of her trip to the Holy Land at the First Evangelical church, Los Angeles, Tuesday evening, speaking before a class of girls.

WESTMINSTER

WESTMINSTER, June 21.—The first twilight baseball game was held Tuesday evening on the new Westminster diamond by the local team playing the Associated Oil company of Huntington Beach, which is composed of Winterburg men. The score stood at 25 to 5 in favor of the Associated team.

Playing on the Westminster team were Raymond Penhall, catcher; Davis, pitcher; Paul Whitcomb first base; Frank McGuire, second base; Leslie Penhall, shortstop; Chester Campbell, third base; George Cough, Slimeon set.

Cozad and F. Dauphine, fielders. Several members of the Westminster L. O. O. F. Lodge attended the Laurel encampment meeting in Santa Ana, when the royal purple degree was given. Those attending from here were L. B. Loftus, George Abbott, R. H. Arnett, William Cozad Jr., and Harry Mansperger. Mrs. Loftus, Mrs. Arnett, Mrs. Mansperger and Mrs. Cozad formed a theater party while the men attended lodges.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hudson and family, who for the past two years have resided in one of the George Abbott houses, have moved this week to a house on Golden West avenue.

The Carpenter family is now located in the Abbott house on Locust street, having moved from the old Frost house on Westminster avenue.

The marriage a few days ago of Donald Larter, of Saugus, who is a former local resident, and Mrs. Ollie Thompson of Orange, is of interest to local friends.

The regular meeting of the Westminster Thursday Afternoon club was postponed this week on account of the absence of Mrs. Robert Falcke, president of the club, who is in Washington, where she was called by the death of her father. The date for the postponed meeting has not been set.

on $16,500,000.00 Dam Bonds

Costing Forty Millions to Taxpayers

DAMSITES CONDEMNED

R. M. BARNES, chief geologist, Marland Oil Co. of California, says:

"It is my opinion that the 'Lower Prado' dam site is geologically poorly located and hence unsuitable, for the following reasons:

1. It will be impracticable to prevent undermining flow of water through these rocks which have been shattered by faulting and crumpling.

2. Possible movements within the Puente fault zone after the dam is constructed would result in failure."

B. A. OTIS, Geologist, General Petroleum Co., says:

"After a geological investigation covering a period of several months, I believe that the Upper Prado damsite is the better one of the two."

J. B. LIPPINCOTT, engineer, says:

"There appears to be no valid reason why a dam should not be built at the Upper Prado site, and a saving made to the taxpayers of Orange county of from $4,126,100 up to a saving of $7,800,000."

BARTON M. JONES, engineer representing Dr. Arthur E. Morgan of New York, designer of the Miami Conservancy project in Ohio, says:

"In my opinion, the proposed reservoir at the lower site would cost at least $7,000,000.00 more than a reservoir at the upper site."

F. C. FINKLE, engineer and geologist 42 years, who had the nerve to predict St. Francis dam failure years ago, says:

"I estimate the Esperanza (Lower Prado) dam would cost a million dollars more than the entire $18,500,000.00 bond issue proposed. In my opinion, it is a dangerous location, and very likely to cause failure of the dam."

Please bear in mind the Water Users' Ass'n. is not advocating any single plan or other dams at this time. The big job now is to defeat the present staggering proposal. If these bonds are defeated, we can vote later on a better plan, but if these bonds carry, we are COMMITTED, and then consideration of any other plan would be useless.

It is economically unsound to pay $2,800.00 per day for 40 years to "conserve" only 13,500 acre feet of water or less per year in the underground stratas, when it will still have to be pumped up for use.

WILL IT RAISE WATER LEVELS TO ANY EXTENT?

WILL IT DECREASE PUMPING BILLS?

WILL THE DAMS BE ABSOLUTELY SAFE?

MRS. JOHANNA BENT

headaches, and was so nervous I couldn't get a good night's sleep. "My liver was sluggish, I was habitually constipated and was continually taking laxatives and other medicines, but all I ever got was a little temporary relief.

"Sargon has helped me wonderfully and I now eat anything I want without ever having indigestion. My nerves are perfect and my sleep is restful. But the best thing is the way Sargon has strengthened me and increased my weight fifteen pounds.

"Sargon Soft Mass Pills are an ideal laxative for people of advanced age, because they are so mild in their action. Sargon Tonic is the grandest medicine I have found in all my experience and deserves all the good things being said about it. I never intend to be without it."

The above remarkable statement is from Mrs. Johanna Bent, highly esteemed resident of 931 Jelh Place, Memphis, Tenn. She is an active worker in the Lutheran church, and now is able to take as keen interest in every day affairs as a woman half her age.

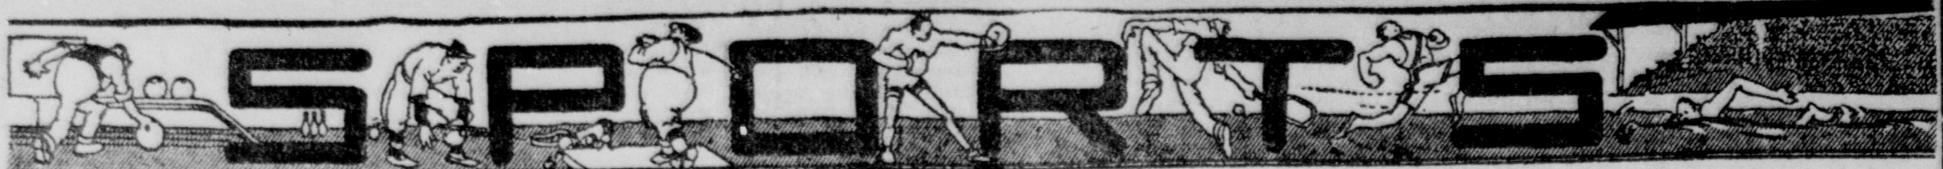

When people grow to the ripe old age of Mrs. Bent, their digestive organs lack vitality and begin to act more slowly and less effectively than in youth. Sargon is the ideal strengthener for old folks, because it creates a good healthy appetite, improves digestion, enriches the blood, and in this natural manner builds up and invigorates feeble and rundown people.

Mrs. Bent is only one of many hundreds of people of advanced age in all sections of the country who have testified that they have used Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills with the most gratifying results.

Sargon may be obtained at the Schramm-Johnson drug store.

When you read The Register you get the best service on local, county, state and national sports, the field being entirely covered by competent writers and well-trained staff correspondents.

Billy Evans, Henry L. Farrell, Frank Getty, Robert Edgren, George Kirksey and Davis J. Walsh are just a few of the sports experts who contribute regularly to The Register.

DID YOU KNOW THAT?

George Simpson, the world's champion sprinter, was beaten in the Western conference games by Eddie Tolan of Michigan. . . . And when he returned home he was asked how come. . . . And he cracked back—"He was ahead of me at the finish." . . . And Bracey, who was beaten by Simpson in the nationals when Simpson made the world's record, told the home folks—"I could have beaten him if the race had been 20 yards longer." . . . The players on the Syracuse ball club went on strike when the pay envelopes refused to come on time. . . . For the third time. . . . The Browns had to use 10 pitchers in three straight games recently. . . . A girl fan from Oklahoma sent Lou Gehrig a rabbit's foot. . . . And he immediately went into a slump. . . . Earl Combs would be a great home run hitter, they say. . . . If he didn't always hit to centerfield. . . . National league pitchers say that the park of the Cincinnati Reds is the fairest in the league.

NASTY OLD PITCHERS

The big league hitters are complaining to the umpires that the pitchers have gone back to the old art of doctoring the ball. They mention in particular Sylvester Johnson of the St. Louis Cards and Howard Ehmke of the Philadelphia Athletics.

None of the batters know exactly what the suspects do to the ball, but they insist the accused culprits can make it sail and that you can't sail a ball unless you do something.

JUST GOOD OLD SPIT

The only foreign substance allowed by the baseball laws to be applied to the ball is spit and only a few old-timers are allowed to engage in that form of trickery. Only those pitchers who were using the spitball when it was ruled out are allowed to use it now. The number naturally decreases as the old arms wear out.

Among the survivors of the old race of spitters in the big leagues are some very good pitchers, Burleigh Grimes of the Pirates, Jack Quinn of the Athletics, Red Faber of the White Sox and Clarence Mitchell of the Cards are good examples.

GRIMES WHOLE BALL CLUB

Uncle Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins, is an authority on pitching. He would rather have three star pitchers on his club than Ruth and Gehrig.

He was discussing the pennant chances of the Pirates and he disputed the contention that the Wanners were the whole Pittsburgh club.

"The ball club is that fellow Grimes" he said with a sigh remembering that once the Burly Burly worked for him.

Have Spent Fortune

The Athletics have spent $475,000 for 16 players, including Grove, Cochrane, Simmons, Bishop, Boley, Hale, Earnshaw, Orwell, Walberg, Rommel, Perkins, Shores, Yerkes, Haas, Quinn and Sunna.

The Yanks have been even more prodigal, having laid $570,000 on the counter for Ruth, Pennock, Koenig, Lazzeri, Larry, Meusel, Hoyt, Combs, Durocher, Wells, Robertson, Bengough, Paschal and Dickey.

These figures are not even conclusive, for they do not take into account the value of players that figured in the various deals by which the two clubs acquired their stars.

Baseball in general is hoping that Connie Mack, 15 seasons without a winner and now nearing three score and ten in years, will be the one who has not spent his money in vain.

T'AIN'T SO, THE SAY

Grimes has said that he actually uses the spitball very infrequently and that he uses the motion of wetting the ball as a threat. But the National league batters say that he uses it almost continuously. Maybe they just think so.

The infielders used to complain that the ball was too hard to handle when a spitball pitcher was working and when it didn't actu-

NEW YORK, June 21.—It was exactly zero by the clock this morning to the shock troops of the Athletics and Yankees as they awaited the word that was to send them out of their dugouts and over the top for the do or don't series that many believe will decide the championship of the American ing engineer has not appeared in the box against Anaheim this term so his puzzling delivery and his remarkable control may be just the combination to wreck Anaheim's pennant aspirations. "Zuse" Ochoa would like nothing better than to oppose his former teammates but "Zuse" has had too much work already this week and he will not be used unless Stockbridge blows up, something he never has done in two years of pitching.

There will be no changes in the Santa Ana lineup but Captain Horace Snow may alter his batting order a bit, raising "Rosey" Merrill to third place behind Ory Schuchardt and "Memphis" Hill, and dropping Bill Foote, who probably will hit after Darwin Scott, the club's cleanup pitcher.

ing and they are hitting the ball. They have never beaten Anaheim team on Anaheim soil and they think tonight will be the night.

Anheim, on the other hand, is better equipped than ever before to resist the Santa Ana attack. They will have a psychological advantage to begin with, and they have several of their veteran "st bats" back in uniform for the rest of the season. Mann, a left fielder who hits 'em from town to town, and Kenny Walker, high class pitcher, have returned to the Mother Colony from Europe and will be ready to go. Manager Bill Knott says the team will enter the bout at even money, Forgione being considered the better boxer and Sheridan being given an edge in the slugging.

Two Yale Crews Defeat Harvard

WITHOUT EVIDENCE

The Southern association has been set up all season by the charges that Dave Danforth, former major leaguer, is doctoring the ball. It is not a new charge. He was practically driven out of the majors by the charge that he was using emery. Ty Cobb says he always doctoring the ball, but no one was able to prove it or to tell what he actually did to the ball, if anything.

100 MEN FIGHT BLAZE NEAR PARK

A grass and stubble fire that swept some 300 acres between El Modena and Irvine park yesterday required a force of approximately 100 men to subdue. The fire, one of the first of the dry season near Santa Ana, resulted from the explosion of a gasoline stove in a tent yesterday morning and was not conquered until late afternoon.

The force of fire fighters operated under the direction of C. B. Redmon, of the Serrano Water company, who co-operates with the U. S. forest service in the program of fire prevention and control.

In commenting on the fire, District Ranger J. K. Munhall of the forest service, stated today that it would not have occurred if the rule requiring a 30-foot clearance space around all cabins and living quarters had been observed.

LIST OF BILLS KILLED BY VETO GIVEN BY YOUNG

By HOMER L. ROBERTS
United Press Staff Correspondent
SACRAMENTO, June 21.—The "casualty list" of legislative bills killed by pocket veto yesterday was issued by Governor Young at his executive offices.

During the last minute rush, the governor signed a number of important bills, bringing his total for the day to 40. The 1929 legislature sent him 1106 measures, one less than in 1927. Of these he signed 891, or seven less than he signed in 1927.

Among the important measures signed by Governor Young last night were the following.

School Bill Wins
The 24-hour school bill, introduced by Assemblywoman Eleanor Miller, of Pasadena, which creates such schools for children who exhibit traits that may develop into potential criminals.

The "bad check" bill, which declares that when a person issues a check which comes back marked "no funds" it may be taken as prima facie evidence of intent to defraud.

The state bar bill, by Assemblyman William Hornblower, San Francisco, which eliminates the college education requirement for the state bar examination, allowing any person who has studied law for three years to take the examination.

The "tipping" bill, which requires an employer who shares in tips to his employees to post a notice to that effect so it may be plainly seen by patrons.

Several Upsets
Several upsets were seen in the list of measures that died for lack of the executive's signature.

These included the measure requiring physical examinations of applicants for a marriage license; ash trays in automobiles; compensation for convict labor in state prison; the state teletype system of police communication; illumination of state highways; requiring presentation of county tax receipts before state license plates are issued; prohibiting discharge of firearms on highways; the "ambulance chaser" bill; the Olympic Games commission, and the measure raising the salary of members of the state board of equalization from $4000 to $5000 a year, payment of fines on "installment plan" requiring red lights along state highways, and providing watershed protection.

County government bills of several counties went to the happy hunting ground at the midnight hour.

These included the Alameda, San Mateo and Santa Cruz county government bills, the measures providing for an additional superior judge for Alameda county, five additional Los Angeles superior judges and the bill by the San Francisco delegation raising San Francisco judges' pay from $9000 to $10,000 a year.

Young to Rest
Today the governor plans to get away from it all for a few weeks, leaving for a motor trip up the Redwood highway to attend dedication ceremonies for the Smith river bridge. Returning Sunday, he will leave shortly after the first of the month for Southern California for his annual vacation. He has promised to devote this period to a study of the pardon application of Tom Mooney, labor leader, serving a life term in San Quentin for participation in the San Francisco Preparedness parade bombing in 1925.

League Of Women Voters' Endorses Water Project

N. EDWARDS
UDS ACTION
F GROUP HERE

Santa Ana League of Women Voters went on record by unanimous vote as supporting the conservation and flood control, which is to be placed before the voters of Orange county on August 25, at the luncheon meeting at Ketner's cafe yesterday.

Nelson T. Edwards, speaker of the day, voiced his approval of action in the following action you have taken here. I do approve of it. If you voted not to support the water project, I still would have approved the action, simply because it is action. Personally, I am in favor of the issue. I have seen water level here go down 100 feet. I can remember seeing large wells in this vicinity when young, one especially I remember about a mile out on First street. It ran three over a seven-inch pipe.

Nat Neff made the motion regarding the water issue that carried.

That the entrance of women into politics and affairs of interest does not lessen the accorded womanhood, but increases its scope, Mrs. Johnon introduced Senator Edwards to the league.

thoroughly approve of this action," the senator declared. Many women do not know how to vote and too many of those who know how to vote neglect the privilege to do so. I believe in an organization that will open an opportunity to learn to vote and then will see that use of the ballot. I believe the influence women have politics, not only from their vote, but from the influence they have over mankind.

men are asking," he continued, "how they can co-operate in this. You have helped women in the past session. I am affiliated with men's committees. That is my own request because I felt that is what I know about. But I would suggest you make a study of legislation of particular interest to women, not because you are not up to advise on business, but because I believe you are qualified to advise on moral, physical and intellectual welfare of our people. If I may say, I think all the educational legislation should be placed in the hands of women. They have been the teachers of the past features in his address yesterday were to be in the facts Senator Edwards gave to show how telegrams, and public interest has induced legislation officials to their action and vote for legislation in which they did believe. He cited several of his experiences.

Edwards said that he had been accomplished the legislation that lies to his heart. He added this phase of his talk in part: "Southern California has not reacted right in the matter of highways. I think now we may possibly have some. It has been my ambition in the senate to accomplish. There are 45 northern counties and the tax is divided between the primary construction fee system. This means losing maintenance on $500 per mile. We are losing $1,000,000 now, because the 1,200 more miles of highway we have."

purpose was to show that Southern California should have miles of road to Northern California's one, in addition to the secondary highway. The concurrent resolution was made by legislature that the plan seems possible that will get a ratio. By putting Santa Ana canyon road in secondary system, we will place maintenance and construction of the county treasury into the senator closed his remarks day with the words: "I believe you can co-operate with representatives in the legislature. Organization and co-operation are the stones of success today. We have both." Addressing the senator's address, Mr. Mangold, of Los Angeles, explained what Santa Ana League of Women actually means to do. "We will think before we speak," he declared, "and speak before we act. We would give candidates opportunity to speak for them and we would place reasons against issues before the so that they may vote as we choose, or so that they may stand on an issue as a resolution. We have a three-point: we aim at more intelligent citizenship; we aim for a

HOOVER INVITED TO JUBILEE

Elaine Volman of Sacramento, Calif., known as "the golden-haired girl from the Golden Gate," was chosen by her home state to go to Washington and personally invite President Hoover to attend the Diamond Jubilee State Fair to be held in Sacramento in August. It's hard to see how President Hoover could resist a smile like that.

EVANGELIST'S SON TO SPEAK ON 'CLAY' HERE

Ray Soper, 17-year-old evangelist, is conducting evening services this week at the Full Gospel assembly church here. He is to talk tonight on the subject, "The Miry Clay," and tomorrow night on the topic, "The Love of God."

Ray Soper is the son of the Rev. J. Kirk Soper, who has succeeded

A. C. Valdez, former evangelist at the local church. He will graduate this spring from the G.

T. B. I. Institute at San Francisco, and will do evangelistic work.

Before coming here the youth was a popular musical artist over a radio station in San Francisco.

Each night Ray Soper features special musical numbers. At the service Sunday night the Soper family will appear in a musical program of religious melodies.

Hugh Runnels, promising young baritone, was well received in the ever-inspirational challenge of Huhn's "Invictus," rendered with sincerity and decisiveness. The tender "Pagan Love Song" was a popular favorite. He was accompanied by Miss Ruth Armstrong.

Most widely admired of Paderewski's many charming works, the famous Polish composer's graceful "Mennet" was accorded a delicately shaded rendition by the band, its stately classic rhythms highly suggestive of the daintily antique dance form.

Rapid transitions of mood were pleasingly interpreted in the appealing Spanish waltz, "Dolores" (Waldteufel), especially enjoyed by the audience. Pensive minor adante themes quickly blend in brilliantly rippling animato, with more than a hint of clashing, insistent coda.

Extending cordial welcome to the large audience, Harry Hanson, President and manager of the Band, explained that the concert season had been opened two weeks early to the public.

Community Players Out of Debt At Last

For almost the first time since its organization 10 years ago, the Santa Ana Community Players association has completed its year of activities with all bills paid, and a fund of $300 in the bank, according to reports presented at last night's annual business meeting held in The Barn.

William H. Spurgeon as president, conducted this session, during which various officers and chairmen made their reports, all of them received with enthusiasm, especially the announcement which revealed so successful a year for the Players. Another matter of pronounced interest was the selecting of five names for the board of directors to serve in the coming year. Mona Summers Smith, Mrs. Marshall Harnois and Miss Edith Cornell were returned to office and Mrs. Charles C. Brisco and Frank Lansdowne were new members elected.

Miss Floyd Crutchfield, Los Angeles representative of the Samuel French publishing company, added to the popularity she attained when in Santa Ana last spring as a judge in the Community Play tournament, by presenting readings in clever and dramatic fashion. She chose a play of Harold Brighouse for one of her numbers and was exceedingly well received.

The program was succeeded by the usual lively social hour during which iced lemonade and a variety of sandwiches proved most appetizing when served by Juanita Wright Fletcher, Mrs. Mildred Snyder, Jack Baker, Warren Fletcher and others.

Many Guests Present At Pretty Church Nuptials

Many Parties Add To Engagement Joys Of Brides

Last night's beautiful wedding of Miss Maxine Zolman, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. E. Zolman, of Long Beach, to Dr. Mervyn Bryte, of Long Beach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter G. Bryte, of Pasadena, was witnessed by over a hundred close friends of the young people, including many from this city where the bride has gained great popularity as a member of the teaching staff of Julia Lathrop Junior high school.

The new chapel of the First Methodist Episcopal church was chosen for the ceremony, and was converted into a veritable flower garden by the artistically arranged blossoms, with orchid and yellow tones predominating. Great clusters of flowers were tied at every alternate pew, and were looped together with white gauze ribbons to mark the aisle for the bridal party.

JOINT HONOREES

Miss Beall and Miss Gladys Finut, another one of the long list of lovely girl brides o' summer, who will wed F. Ray King of Carlsbad in July, were joint honorees at another pretty party of the week. This was a reunion of To-He-Ha Camp girls who were members of that organization at the same time the two brides-elect were connected with it, under the guardianship of Miss Anne Trythall.

Miss Trythall planned the happy reunion, which was held in her home, 110 Buffalo avenue. Bowls of golden coreopsis with much greenery established the charming yellow and green color motif of the decorations, and formed an effective background for the group of lovely girls who assembled round the card tables for bridge and rook.

The hostess disregarded the scores in making her prize awards, and presented the attractive gifts to her honor guests.

Little Jessie Stone made a dainty picture as a flower girl, in orchid organdy frock that was a success of ruffles. Wilbur Greene, a classmate of Dr. Bryte, held the post of honor as best man, while Dr. Harold Benedict and Fred Reidman, college mates of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

Following the ceremony read by the Rev. George Warmer, D. D., pastor of the church, with his usual impressive dignity, the newly wedded pair received their guests in the church social rooms, where Dr. and Mrs. Zolman joined the receiving line. Mrs. Zolman was handsomely gowned in a blue georgette ensemble.

In leaving for their honeymoon, presumably in the north, Dr. and Mrs. Bryte traveled by automobile. The bride chose a smart ensemble costume in sand and brown shades for traveling, with all dress accessories to harmonize. The young people will make their home in this city, where Mrs. Bryte will resume her work in the music department of the junior high school next year, while Dr. Bryte will return back and forth between his home and his Long Beach office.

Y. W. C. A. Workers Plan Future Activities

In voicing anticipations for next year's Y. W. C. A. work when the young women will be in spacious new quarters already engaged in the Main Investment building soon to be under construction, Miss Nancy Elder, Y. W. secretary, and Miss Dorothy Cartwright, Girl Reserve secretary, today gave a resume of the program which has been in effect during the past year.

Extremely valuable to women and girls has been the weekly "Ladies' day" at the Y. M. C. A. building, where the gymnasium and pool have been available to them every Tuesday since the opening of the building in 1924. That first committee of local women appointed to be responsible for formation of classes in gym work and swimming, became the nucleus for the Y. W. C. A., which now has full control. Mrs. R. R. Russick has been physical director since the beginning and at present has the assistance of the Misses Martha McPeak and Dorothy Beament.

The Y. W. committee responsible for the health education program includes Mrs. M. L. Keefer, chairman, Miss Isabel Lindsay, Dr. Margaret Baker, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Mrs. Harry Gardner and Mrs. S. H. Finley. There are 150 girls registered in the afternoon classes in gymnasium, ranging in age from 8 to 15. No fees are charged for the girls' regular gym work with the privilege of the pool and during the summer there will be free swimming classes for them. In the gymnasium work Mrs. Russick emphasizes posture, tests and special health exercises.

Miss Cartwright as advising secretary to the Girl Reserves, has maintained an equally ambitious program, in which she has had the assistance of the leaders of the four clubs in existence. These four are the Misses Martha McPeak, Katherine MacMullen and Esther Ridderout and Mrs. Irma Rutter. The clubs are organized in co-operation with local welfare organizations at Thanksgiving and Christmas and also sent gifts to a school in New Mexico for Navajo Indian children.

The clubs are united in work and programs by an inter-club council which consists of the presidents and one other representative from each club. This group during the past year has been the Misses Ada Marie Hendrickson, Dorothy Bourne, Edith Baily, Katherine Spangler, Betty Smith, Cleo West, Wilda Rohrer, Doyle Boyle, Edith Bailey, Carol Smith, Mae Hasenberger, Katherine Bement, Helen Kadawaki, Irene Boyer and Doris Bolles.

Each of the four clubs has two monthly meetings, and programs have included discussion of religious problems of girls, international interests, handcrafts, nature lore, etiquette and service. In their service work they co-operated with local welfare organizations at Thanksgiving and Christmas and also sent gifts to a school in New Mexico for Navajo Indian children.

Installation Ceremony Is Shared By Young Business Girls

At the date of Miss Elizabeth Beall's wedding to Dean Smiley draws nearer, that charming young bride-elect is finding herself the very center of a whirl of gaiety planned by her friends.

Last night she was complimented at a dinner party in the home of her fiance's brother, Andrew Smiley, in Garden Grove, where a very enjoyable evening was spent following the attractively appointed dinner at which covers were placed for members of the family circle alone. Mr. Smiley is to be a member of the bridal party at Sunday night's wedding of the young people in the United Presbyterian church, where he will serve his brother as best man. The tiny daughter of the home, Janet Smiley, will also have prominent part as the flower girl.

JOINT HONOREES

Miss Beall and Miss Gladys Finut, another one of the long list of lovely girl brides o' summer, who will wed F. Ray King of Carlsbad in July, were joint honorees at another pretty party of the week. This was a reunion of To-He-Ha Camp girls who were members of that organization at the same time the two brides-elect were connected with it, under the guardianship of Miss Anne Trythall.

Miss Trythall planned the happy reunion, which was held in her home, 110 Buffalo avenue. Bowls of golden coreopsis with much greenery established the charming yellow and green color motif of the decorations, and formed an effective background for the group of lovely girls who assembled round the card tables for bridge and rook.

The hostess disregarded the scores in making her prize awards, and presented the attractive gifts to her honor guests.

Little Jessie Stone made a dainty picture as a flower girl, in orchid organdy frock that was a success of ruffles. Wilbur Greene, a classmate of Dr. Bryte, held the post of honor as best man, while Dr. Harold Benedict and Fred Reidman, college mates of the bridegroom, served as ushers.

Following the ceremony read by the Rev. George Warmer, D. D., pastor of the church, with his usual impressive dignity, the newly wedded pair received their guests in the church social rooms, where Dr. and Mrs. Zolman joined the receiving line. Mrs. Zolman was handsomely gowned in a blue georgette ensemble.

In leaving for their honeymoon, presumably in the north, Dr. and Mrs. Bryte traveled by automobile. The bride chose a smart ensemble costume in sand and brown shades for traveling, with all dress accessories to harmonize. The young people will make their home in this city, where Mrs. Bryte will resume her work in the music department of the junior high school next year, while Dr. Bryte will return back and forth between his home and his Long Beach office.

The two will make the trip by automobile, Mr. Tibbets going as far as Cheyenne where he will visit with relatives while Mr. Williams continues to St. Louis, Mo. The pair will take in the wonders of Zion park before separating at Cheyenne, and will visit Yellowstone on their return journey. They expect to be absent from Santa Ana six weeks.

Covers were laid at the flower-decked table, for the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, their honor guests, Miss Beal and Mr. Smiley, and the Misses Elizabeth Todd, Mildred Lukens, Wilma Hoy and Patricia Kennedy, Misses Newlin Hoy, Donald Dunbar, Lawrence Hogue and James Lukens.

In calling together the members of the Teachers' Training class of the United Presbyterian church, Mr. and Mrs. John Henderson paid a graceful compliment to Miss Beall and Mr. Smiley, both of whom are members of this faithful group of workers.

The guests had a covered dish dinner at the Henderson home, 202 North Ross street, and during the course of the evening, the class members presented the honored guests with a set of cocktail glasses in the etched crystal of the set which Miss Beall is assembling. Presentation of the lovely gift was made by dainty little Mary Adele Henderson, small daughter of the home. Mrs. Henderson is leader of the class.

Before leaving on the trip, Mr. Williams will graduate from the University of California at Los Angeles where he has been taking a teacher's training course. He will receive his diploma Saturday night, June 29, at Mills hall in Los Angeles.

Motorists are advised to take the route through the mountains of the Sierras, as the road through the desert is not yet open.

Young Man Returns With Bride From Vacation Trip

When Matthew Smith of the composing room of the Santa Ana Register, and son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Smith of Costa Mesa, returned this week from a vacation trip northwards, he surprised his fellow workers on the paper, by bringing with him a very charming bride, formerly Miss Irma Covey of Forestville, Sonoma county.

The young people were wedded Saturday night, June 15, in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Covey of Forestville, in the presence of a large group of relatives and friends, including Miss Ruth Smith of Costa Mesa, a sister of the bridegroom, who accompanied him north for the wedding.

Elaborate decorations made the home a very charming spot for the ceremony, with an arch of pink Dorothy Perkins roses and swaying blue tapers formed the triangle which is the emblem of the Y.W.C.A. under which organization this club of delightful young business girls, is directed.

Spring flowers were placed advantageously about the airy patio, and especially significant was the table near the fountain where tall blue tapers formed the triangle which is the emblem of the Y.W.C.A. under which organization this club of delightful young business girls, is directed.

The MIXING BOWL by ANN MEREDITH

More About the Picnic Season
Yesterday I told you about the fascinating new paper picnic dishes and today we are going to talk about what we are going to eat. First let me say that the chief end of food is to supply the energy to go on the picnic, so let it be simple because all food tastes scrumptious out of doors when mixed with a little wood smoke and a general good time.

Everybody likes weiners, I think, but toasted weiners wrapped in bacon blankets are the acme of picnic delicacies. Do this part at home: wrap each weiner in a strip of bacon and pin with a toothpick.

Have a long iron skewer made for picnic cooking, slip the weiners on the skewer and let someone you can trust do the toasting.

Buy a sufficient number of long rolls, split and butter them at home, and there you are . . . all ready to slip the toasted weiner in and the pot of mustard ready for each one to help himself. Sliced dills can be carried in a covered paper roll, creamy potato salad in another, hulled and sugared strawberries in still another. Sugary doughnuts can be bought en route.

But DID you ever scramble eggs and bacon over a campfire? That's the final word in lovely food . . . and the pot of bubbling, brown, fragrant coffee . . . and then the long ride home in the warm twilight with the comforting thought that there is only the coffee pot and frying pan to wash. That's a picnic as a picnic . . .

TODAY'S RECIPE

Philadelphia Cream Cheese Salad
1 package cream cheese
1 cup heavy mayonnaise
1 can tomato soup
2 tablespoons gelatine
1/2 cup cold water
1/2 cup boiling water
1 cup diced celery
2 tablespoons finely shredded green pepper
6 green onions, tops and all
6 or 8 large green olives, minced

The first operation is preparing the gelatine: soak for 10 minutes in cold water, dissolve in the half-cup of boiling water and set aside to cool.

Heat the can of tomato soup and cut the cake of cream cheese into it, stirring until the cheese is melted. The soup must not be allowed to boil or the cheese will curdle. Add the gelatine to the soup mixture and let it cool and slightly jelly.

Now, the vegetables: They may

NOTHER NAME

It seems that it's perfectly all right for Her Majesty, the Law, to obtain her evidence through trickery. Now it appears that one "Mrs. Carl Miles of Grottoes, Va., to whom Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett sent her famous sex pamphlet, was merely a nome de plume used by the federal officer "out to get her." If a private citizen pulled a trick like this, it would surely turn out to be forgery or false impersonation or something punishable by fine and imprisonment.

Glorifying the Summer Girl

An Evening Gown of Blue-Gray Organdie Over a Silver Cloth Slip Is Distinguished for Its Simple Bodice and Scalloped Skirt Incrusted With Silver Lace and Stitched With Silver Thread

LET us be gorgeously and gaily impractical for today, and consider the summer costume in its most beguiling and seductive version.

To be sure, one must sometimes be serious and hard-working, even in those months when the weather is the least in harmony with such a program, and there must be practical clothes—but forget them for the moment.

Let us consider a world of organdies and laces, or diaphanous chiffons and transparent velvets. Let us forget all staid and practical colors.

Let us vision lovely yellows, shading deeply into warm orange, or straying into the territory of the greens and coming out chartreuse and those delicate yellow-greens that suggest tropical birds.

Let us remember the delicate pink of the wild rose, and the true blue of the forget-me-not. Think of the tender blue-grays of twilight and the blush-tint of the dawn.

Then combining our colors and our fabrics, let us proceed to think of the summer girl and her glorification. The successful summer frock of this season must seem to float and flow. It must have motion and a continuity of line. In its most popular version it is long at the sides and the back and short in front, and during dancing or walking, the longer portions float languorously in the breeze.

THIS year's skirt is never a straight line, except for sport or daytime wear. In the evening it is irregular, scalloped, draped, and made interesting by many methods.

Gowns of lace and chiffon, both for afternoon and evening, usually have their own wraps, either a cape that falls negligently from the shoulders and is gathered into a close line at the hips, or a coat, or maybe it is just a circle or square of the material that takes form when it comes in contact with the frock for which it is intended.

Organdie, that perennially youthful fabric, is smarter than ever this season, and makes some of the most romantic of gowns. It may be self-trimmed, embellished with lace or embroidery, or it may be garlanded with very natural-looking artificial flowers. It quite often has an old-fashioned looking sash, tied in a guileless bow, and naturally calls for the wide-brimmed picture hat.

I. THIS lovely organdie evening dress is blue-gray in color and is worn over a slip of silver cloth. A wide streamer is tied in a bow on the back of the bodice and falls almost to the floor. The very full skirt is skillfully incrustated with insertions of silver lace and stitched with rows of silver thread on the scallops.

II. DELIGHTFUL fragility is suggested by this evening ensemble of black chiffon and white lace. The gown is cut low both back and front, has the narrowest of shoulder straps and is molded smoothly about the waistline. The skirt, full and scalloped, is edged with white lace, and the cape which completes the ensemble charmingly repeats the wide scallops of lace found in the gown's hemline.

III. THIS ultra-smart interpretation of the modish beach pajamas has a coat and very full trousers figured in green, yellow and black with just a dash of red in it. The little accompanying coat is of unfingered green material that exactly matches the green in the print.

IV. MORE striking in its way is this suit of beach pajamas in Chinese red with a complementary blouse in a bright orange hue. There is something contradictorily feminine in the bows at the waist and neckline, but they are charming touches to this comfortable outfit. The trousers are regular Boston bags and can be quickly removed when the wearer gets bored with lolling on the beach and wants to cool off in the rollers.

The beach pajama suit is becoming almost a national costume at American watering places, and the most popular version seems to be the ensemble that has the trousers and blouse in one piece and the coat, either long or short, a separate feature.

V. A SUMMER ensemble entirely of lace combines a frock and a cape of flesh pink thread lace. The gown is cut low both back and front and has a slightly raised waistline. The skirt has deep points at the sides and back. The cape may be worn open or held tightly about the figure below the hips to give the new outline known as the mermaid silhouette.

VI. EQUIALLY suitable for either afternoon or evening is this delightful summery frock of white organdie. It is bound in blue organdie and its surface is delicately decorated with hand-painted flowers. About the waist is a sash of folded blue and chartreuse ribbon. At the neckline revers fold back to form a V. The hat is of white straw and has blue ribbon streamers.

GRANDDAUGHTER RETURNS

Their romantic marriage was a national sensation several years ago. Pictured above upon arriving in New York from Europe are Mr. and Mrs. Max Oser of Zurich, Switzerland, and their children Anita and Peter. At the age of 17, Mrs. Oser, the former Mathilde McCormick, granddaughter of John D. Rockefeller, married the Swiss riding master over the objections of her father, Harold McCormick, millionaire manufacturer. Because of the illness of Mr. McCormick, they have returned to this country for the first time since their marriage.

ANGE, June 21.—Lions of this went on record Wednesday as being the flood control and conservation bonds, a resolution to this effect having been made at the regular meeting of the organization in the American club.

George L. F. Coburn, chairman of water conservation committee of the Associated Chambers of commerce, pointed out the danger of dropping of the water levels. Officers were elected, with Royards president and J. L. Wood secretary. Edwards succeeds Muench.

El Sacket, who returned from a trip to Utah recently gave an account of his trip.

"A President Is Born"

ALL her life, Helen Dougherty had craved leisure, modish, up-to-date surroundings, a sure income, freedom from the bickering of a large family of children, and a good husband.

Strangely enough, she achieved them all at a time when, to the casual observer, she was just about to become middle-aged and wedded to the destiny of her position as chief operator in a Telephone Exchange.

It all happened with the velocity, the glamor and the dramatics of a fairy-tale. One evening, walking home from the Telephone Exchange to the crowded apartment she shared with her parents, two married sisters, a brother or two and some growing, squalling nieces and nephews, she ran into one of her brothers-in-law standing in front of a large commercial hotel talking to a man to whom he had been trying to sell a life insurance policy.

THAT was how Helen met Fred Sloan. After Fred caught one glimpse of Helen, who had reddish hair and reddish eyes and a pleasant up-turned nose, her brother-in-law sold him the life insurance, but only after Fred Sloan had succeeded in getting himself invited to the home of the Doughertys for dinner.

Six weeks later, after a whirlwind courtship, Fred and Helen were married in the parlors of the hotel in front of which they had met and in which Fred had lived for the fifteen years of his bachelorthood. In a jiffy, as it were, leaving her friends, her family, the girls at the telephone exchange astounded, Helen Dougherty, who had worked since she was fourteen, found herself with the four requisites of her dreams—leisure, modish, up-to-date surroundings, a sure income, freedom from the bickering of a large family of children, and a good husband.

FRED was not a rich man in the modern sense of that word, but he had an income that would enable them to live as all her life Helen had dreamed of living. They were able to afford, without encroaching on their capital, a modern, well-furnished suite of rooms in an apartment hotel that faced the park. For the first time in her life, Helen Dougherty, who was a tailor-made type of person that had always been obliged to wear "readymades", blossomed forth in svelte, chic suits designed especially to her figure. The rings on her fingers were good diamonds mounted in platinum. Her wrist watch was jeweled and her silver fox the best that money could buy.

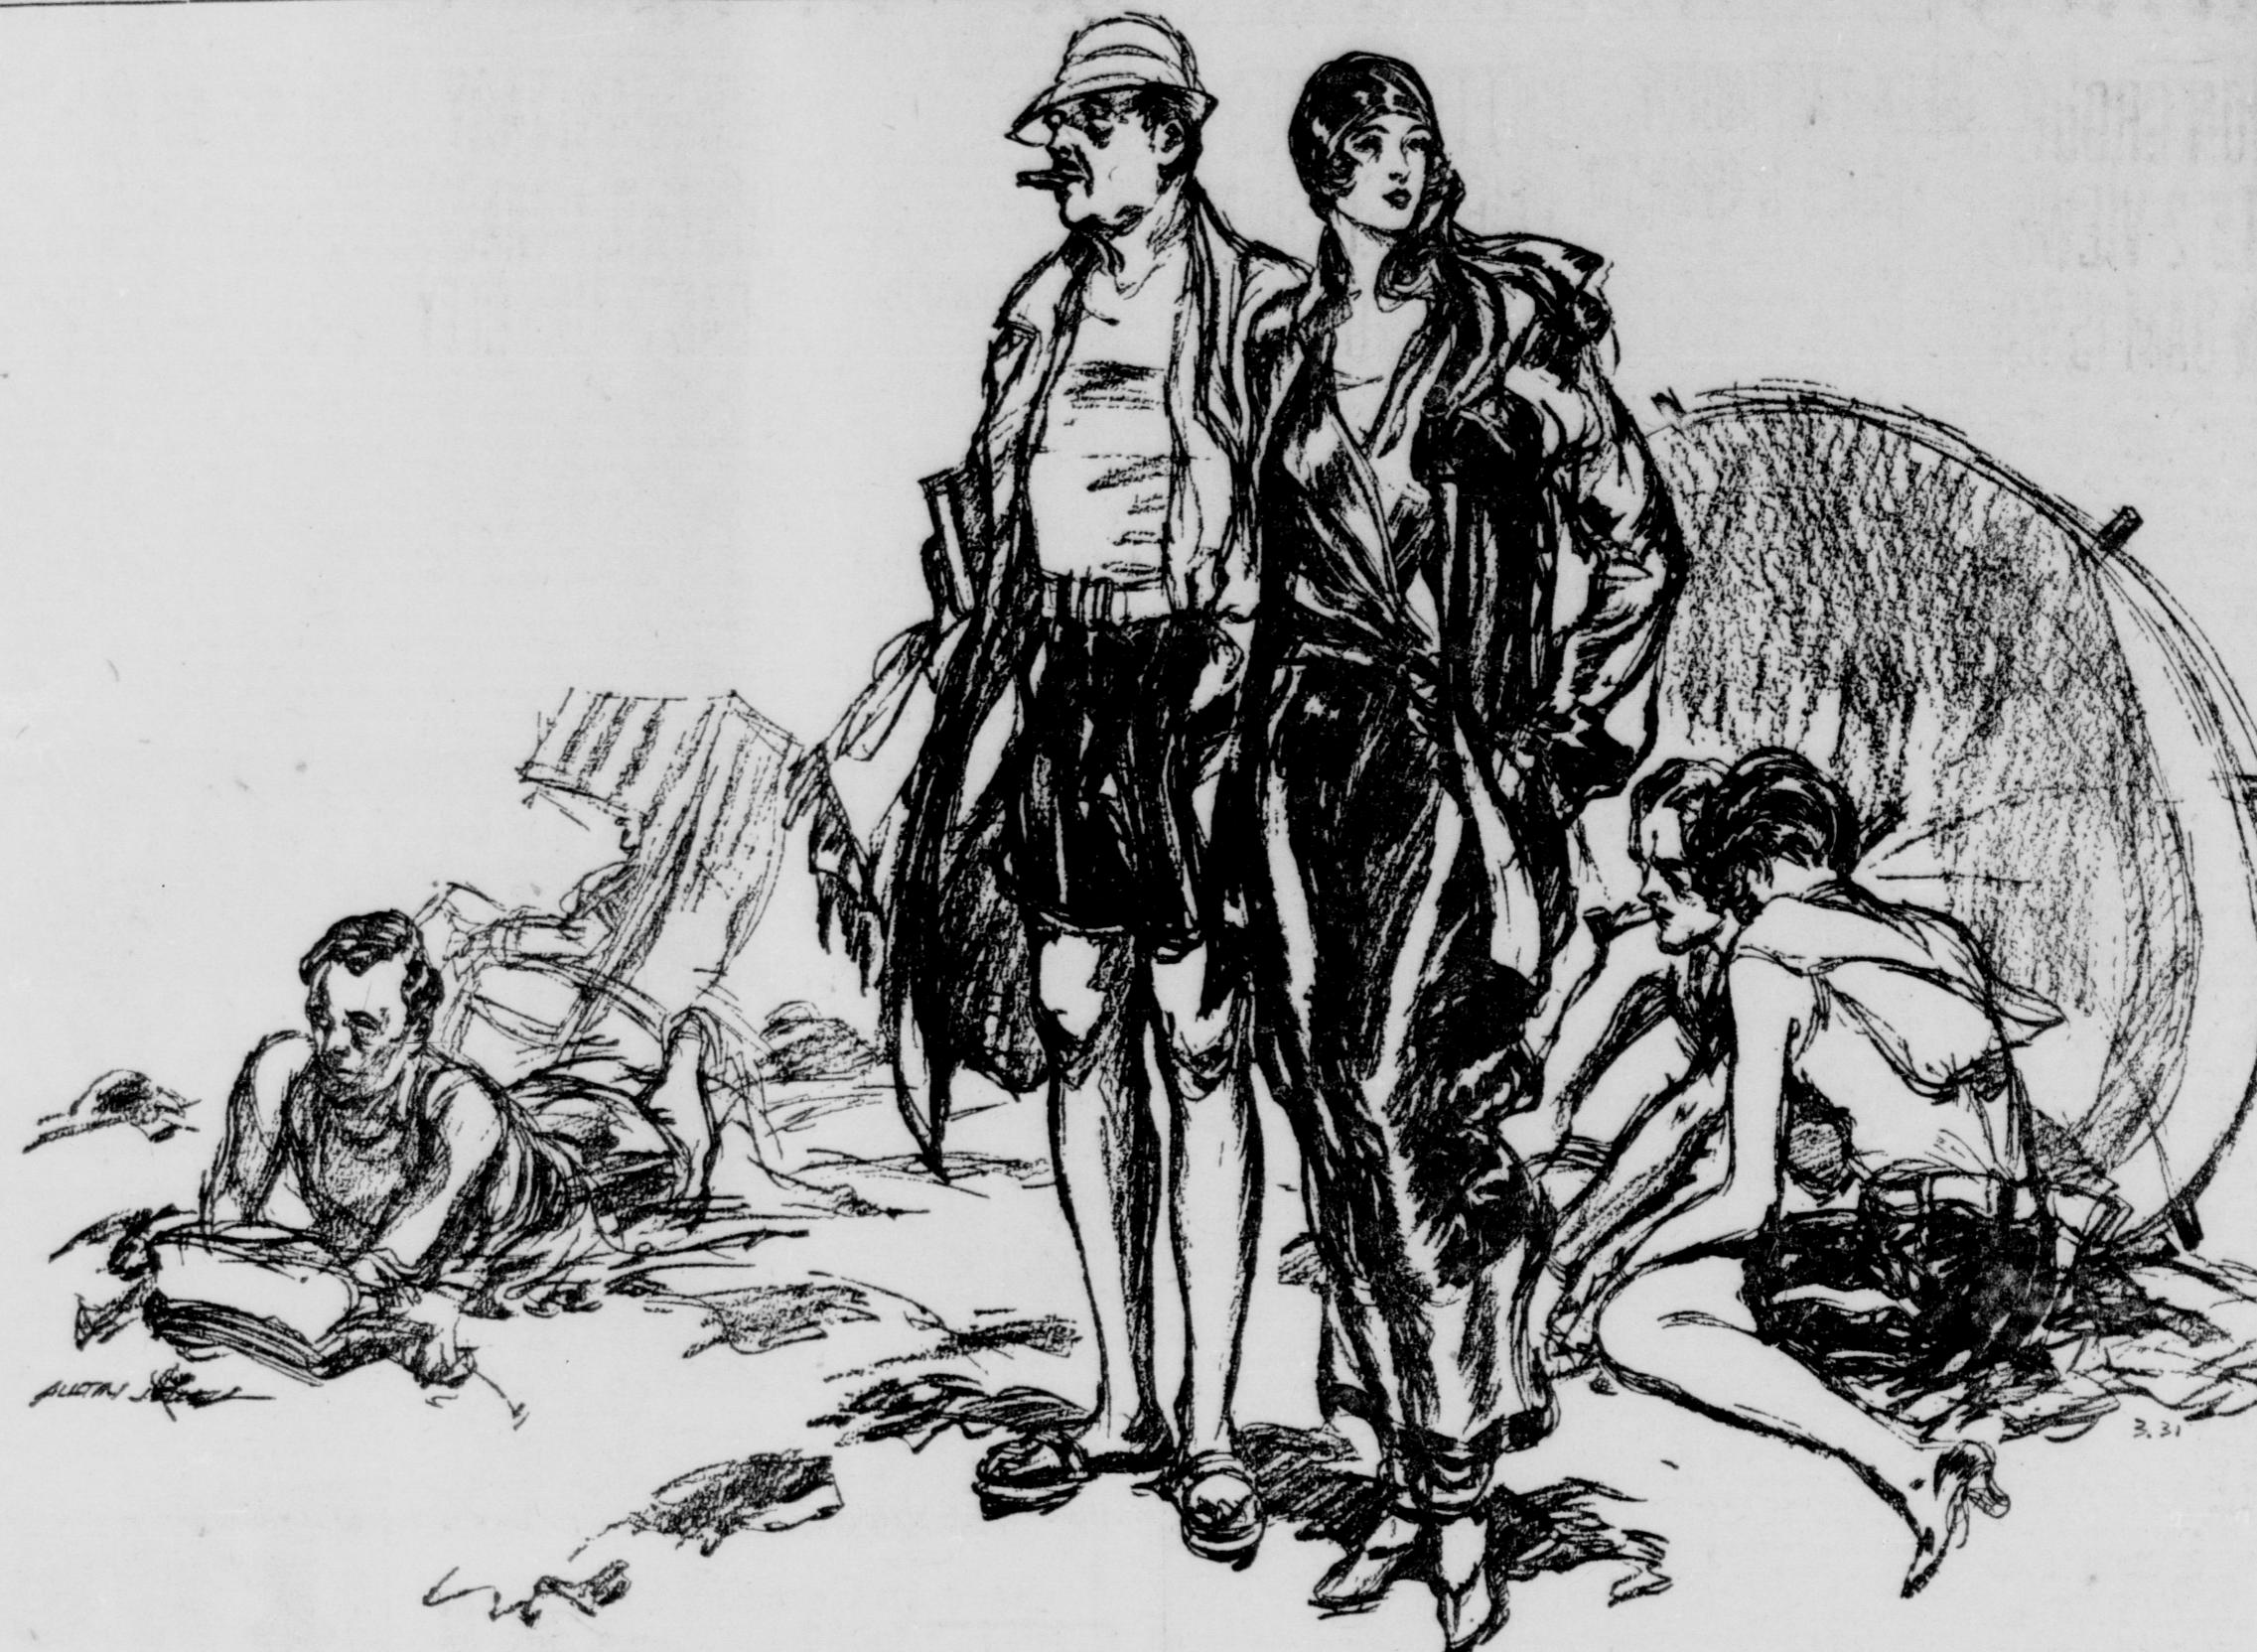

The Sloans could afford to spend three months a year at Atlantic City in one of the pretentious hostelleries overlooking the ocean. Fred loved the sea, and the boardwalk gayety of the pleasure resort amused him. He was proud of Helen. He liked to walk with her into the gaudy dining rooms or ride beside her in the wicker rolling chairs up and down the beach. They were a contented pair, living comfortably on their income, coming and going as they willed, occasionally willing to take a trip to Niagara Falls or Chicago, or a boat ride to Boston. Helen had married well.

Helen had married well.

IT was pleasant to be in a position to help her family. To see to it that a warm new coat replaced her mother's shabby one, that her father, after his long, dull day as watchman in a warehouse, could come home to the solid comforts of radio, easy-chair and good cigars. The nieces and nephews came in for their share, too. Fred was generous.

It seemed to Helen that there was a constant paeon of thanksgiving going on in her heart over this blessed delivery from the wrangling, over-crowded, niece-and-nephew-cluttered environment of the stuffy little flat she had called home up to the day of that momentous meeting with Fred Sloan in front of the commercial hotel.

It became inevitable, after a while, that Helen and Fred, living the carefree lives of a pair of carefree nomads, should sink into the pleasant routine of hotel life. More and more, the holiday aspect of Atlantic City attracted the pair. Fred's philosophy of life was an easy-going one. "We're Fred loved the sea, and the boardwalk gayety of the pleasure resort amused him. He was proud of Helen. here today, gone tomorrow. Get all you can out of it today."

The Sloan suite in the gaudy hotel overlooking the ocean came to mean home. The gay, transient holiday crowds came and went, but the Sloans remained, meeting a lobby civilization, as it poured in and out. Every evening at eight, Fred climbed into his dinner clothes and Helen powdered her white neck, dressed herself in modish chiffons or taffetas and descended en decollete to the dining room. It was unbelievably pleasant, eating to the strains of good music, surrounded by well-dressed people, deferred to by waiters. The Sloans fattened a little with well-being.

It seemed to Helen, so quickly does the human mind accustom itself to new formula of habit, that the old noise-and-nerve-racked days belonged to another era of her consciousness. She used to snuggle her hand under her husband's on their twilight chair-rides along the boardwalk that ran parallel to the pounding showy ocean, and ask him to give her a good pinch around the wrist.

"That's for reality, Fred. Sometimes it all just doesn't seem real. Life is so pleasant now. So—relaxed."

That pleased Fred more than he could express to her. It gave him enormous sense of the well being of the producer. He thrilled with the consciousness of being good-provider to this nice dear girl who was his.

"Fred," she asked him once, again on a chair ride, tucked under rugs, along the curving shore, "do you think we are getting smug?"

Smug? Fred was not given to introspection.

"You know, Fred—kind of—fat-minded."

"I like you plump," said the literal Fred and kissed her on the cheek.

"Fred dear! not in public!"

"Why not? Let them know how sweet my gel is. Where will we eat tonight, honey? I could do with one of the Shelburne's big, juicy sirloins smothered in fried onions."

Little rills alongside—Helen's tongue began to run. After all, it was pleasant just to live, surrendering oneself to creature enjoyments. Life had been a long and arduous affair for her. She had done her share in her time to contribute to the well being of others. She was doing her share now. Part of her placid happiness was the knowledge that her father was no longer obliged to spend the long nights through, dragging his weary old frame through tours of inspection of a warehouse.

Thanks to Fred, bless him, thanks to her, the old gentleman was free to end his days in and a certain amount of ease.

It was hard not to feel just a little smug happiness, even if the vagrant thought did across her consciousness occasionally that she was fast becoming of the hotel leisure class of women whose major interests are lap dog bridge whist.

But so low beneath the surface of her consciousness ran all this, that it scarcely left consciousness dent.

So that what happened subsequently as much out of a clear sky to Helen herself as to Fred, who had come to realize, after his year of marriage to this big, amiable woman, he could refuse her nothing.

One morning they had taken a motor boat along the beautiful coast line to visit an asylum that was known for its picturesque location and its worthy work. A group of triplets had been received by the organization, two headed little girls and a red-haired boy. Fine specimens of youngsters, unique chiefly because they were triplets.

There was never a moment's doubt in the mind of Helen Sloan, when she looked at the three, that she wanted them. Their appeal was swift, sure and devastating. At first, they had struck Fred as too grotesque for consideration. But before they left that institution two days later, he had been won over to the consideration of an idea that up to that day would have appeared fantastic.

EIGHT weeks later three small children four years, four months and two days formally handed over for legal adoption to Mrs. Fred Sloan.

It is impossible for the Sloans, on the basis of their income, any longer to maintain the expense of expensive rooms in the sumptuous hotel. Sloans now occupy a pleasant six-room apartment on the upper west side of New York. It is a large apartment, filled with the din of three children.

Helen's costumes have gone off a bit in tailormade precision. Fred thinks it all a joke. To his amazement, the former idle life in the sumptuous hotels seem incredibly vapid in retrospect.

Mix's Money Bag Found; Porter Is Accused Of Theft

PORSCMOUTH, N. H., June 21.—(UPI)—Tom Mix's leather bag, containing cash and securities said to represent nearly $100,000, was safe in the movie star's hands today after a brief investigation into its disappearance from his berth in a circus train.

Russell Everett, of Peru, Ind., 22-year-old Negro porter attached to the train, was held in jail here on a larceny charge, police declaring he had confessed to stealing the bag and concealing it in a battery box under a show car.

As a result of Everett's reputed confession, Cal Frydendahl, Mix's valet, who was arrested yesterday in connection with the robbery, had been released. The porter at first implicated Frydendahl but subsequently shouldered full responsibility, authorities said.

AN UNTIMELY FUSS

It is reported that considerable furor has been stirred because Mrs. Hoover entertained Mrs. Oscar De Priest, a colored woman, wife of Representative De Priest from Chicago, at a tea. The fact that the fuss is ill-timed, and the feeling which prompts it becoming obsolete is borne out by a timely article by Oswald Garrison Villard in the July Harpers which arrived yesterday. Mr. Villard says that in almost every town in the South where there is both a white and a colored college there is a joint student forum, meeting under student direction once or twice a month, for mutual acquaintance and the discussion of undergraduate problems . . .

"Out of a meeting of intelligent, cultured, Christian white women in Memphis, Tenn., several years ago there has come," says Mr. Villard, "meeting after meeting of intelligent colored and white women. Contacts that it seemed impossible ever to establish have come to pass easily and naturally.

"A young citizen of Georgia, 'pure Confederate on both sides' and bearing the names of two distinguished generals, enjoyed a year at a Northern university with a Chinese in a room on one side of him and a colored man on the other. He found that he had not the slightest difficulty in meeting both his neighbors on terms of equality and he enjoyed his contacts with them . . .

"A most typical Southerner, long a teacher in one of the South's deservedly historic institutions, receives his colored friends in his home now that he is domiciled in a border state.

"Not long ago there was a meeting of a scientific association of college teachers at a famous New England college. When three colored delegates entered the dining room of the inn for their first meal there was a moment's hesitation. Then it was three Southern professors who rose from their tables and joined the newcomers. . . . three Southerners to show the gentleman at his very finest."

The relationship between the white people and the colored people has changed to a startling degree the last few years and those who have not kept abreast of the rapid elimination of this type of racial prejudice are the only ones who are trying to stir up a fuss because Mrs. Hoover refrained from showing racial animosity to the extent of treating Mrs. De Priest as she would treat her if she were a white woman.

REGISTER ON FLOOD PROGRAM

will accomplish this purpose, and though we believe many of the objections which are raised to this site in favor of the upper one are valid objections, yet we believe as thoroughly that the selection of the upper site by a majority of the people is a hopeless one, and that it is possibly the only insurance that Orange County may have for a conservation program adequate for the future, is to vote for this program next Tuesday.

It is not an academic question. It is purely business and, if you please, a political proposition which is before us. We believe that the Board of Supervisors and the committee advising them were exercising just as fine judgment in determining upon the lower site for the reason that they believed that it could be carried by the people, and the upper one could not as if they decided it for any other factual reason. This, of course, is presuming that it would accomplish the same purpose as the upper site would. Of this they were apparently convinced. We do not say that they reached this decision by this method. We say that if they did they were justified in it, and we cannot help believing that they did consider the degree of opposition they would encounter at either site. If they didn't do this, they were remiss in their duty not to have done it.

It has been pointed out that the cost of the amount of water that would be added to our available supply by the approval of this engineering enterprise might be too great a business proposition for us to use it for irrigation or even domestic purposes. If this were the entire water supply and all of our supply cost the same this reasoning would be correct, but after all when this water is conserved and the program carried out the total amount of water will not be divided into component parts and this amount said to cost so much and the other costing more, but the total cost for water for the supply which we now have plus that which we will gain will be considered in its totality, and the unit cost be found by dividing the total cost by the amount of water obtained and the price for this we are confident will be reasonable and not prohibitive.

We believe that the progress of Orange County is dependent upon a conservation program. We believe the very fact that the degree of opposition is so great and bitterness has been brought out, points to one clear situation, and that is that the defeat of this plan is a defeat of all plans. It means that Orange County, as a whole, will have no relief, that water levels will continue to lower, that pumping costs will continue to increase, that land which can be profitably tilled now will ultimately have to be abandoned and that the voters of the county will be forced to stand help- for its manufactured products.

less facing the situation, because they are powerless to remedy it.

The remedy is before us. It may have its shortcomings. It may have its imperfections, but we should remember that society is humanly organized, the Santa Ana canyon was not fitted by nature to carry out this specific undertaking. It will be impossible for any engineer or any group of engineers to carry out any plan which other engineers and other leaders could not criticize or find fault with, in fact those adopting the plan could criticize and find fault themselves, and consusions are reached after weighing all of the objections, including the objections which are raised, and possibly some which have not been raised.

Unfortunately we cannot be cock-sure of our conclusions. All we can do is to take what appears to be the safest and surest course. After years of agitation, investigation and planning, a program has been definitely placed before us to which objections have been made, all of which were certain to come and which we have anticipated. The evidence is practically all in. Each side has had a complete hearing. The voters of the county must weigh the evidence. From the standpoint of a journal, whose value and success depends upon the prosperity and growth of Orange County in its entirety, and speaking with that interest in mind we say we believe that it would be the interest of a vast majority of the people and insure the continued growth and prosperity of the entire county if the bonds for this program are carried on next Tuesday.

STATISTICS FROM HARVARD

A study recently made at Harvard indicates that students going to Harvard University from public schools are better prepared for college than students from private or "tutoring" schools, the proof being that they seem to get along better after they get there. The figures are made public by the United States Bureau of Education following a survey made in that institution.

Of 436 men in the class of 1929, who entered as freshmen from public schools, 102 obtained ranks which gave them places on the dean's list and sixty had unsatisfactory records. Of 411 freshmen in the same class who came from private schools fifty-three were put on the dean's list and ninety-two had unsatisfactory records. In the class of 1930, the number of freshmen students who entered from public schools was eight more than the number of freshmen who entered from private schools, but the number of those coming from public schools who, at the end of their freshman year were placed in the first three groups of the rank list, was greater by fifty-four than the number of those who came from private schools.

Furthermore it was found that public school men in the group from the public school contributed fifty-eight fewer students to the number of those who had unsatisfactory records and nineteen fewer than those whose connection with the college were severed than did the group from the private school and "tutored" class.

These figures are little short of surprising. The idea has spread, probably based on the large number of students in Harvard who had been prepared at private schools or tutored, that the student entering from the public schools was from the start under a greater handicap than the one who entered from those schools which, it was believed, were in closer connection and harmony with the university. These figures, indicate, however, that while he may be handicapped socially he is not handicapped in the class rooms.

Incidentally, the figures bring some consolation to the parents who, appreciating a Harvard training for their sons, and feeling capable of financing that cannot extend the financial outlay to four years of preparatory school.

The public school boy at Harvard will get along as well as the one from preparatory school if he learns to say "prep" instead of "high" when talking previous schools days over with his fellows.

Great Growth of State's Industries

San Bernardino Sun
What do all the people do who come to California? Are the industries expanding as rapidly as the growth of population?

Those and similar questions are asked daily as we see California rapidly increasing in population.

It is difficult to find the figures to produce the answers. Estimates on the increase in industrial activity are just as difficult to compile as those on population gains.

But the figures on the volume of export trade of California are available and they are accurate. California's exports increased in 1928 to $345,436,658 from $309,544,746, a gain of $35,891,912. The increase from 1926 to 1927 had been from $281,604 to $309,544,746.

The rate of increase last year was approximately 11 per cent. The rate for the two years combined was approximately 20 per cent.

If the industries that support the export trade increased 20 per cent in two years it is perhaps a safe estimate that all other industry increased at the same rate. And we doubt that population increased at the rate of 20 per cent in two years.

Oil and its products make up a very considerable portion of the California exports, approximately a third of a total. But agriculture contributes a very sizeable quota, including such items as cotton $18,000,000, prunes $15,000,000, oranges $12,000,000, raisins $12,000,000, barley $8,000,000, canned peaches $7,000,000.

California ranks as the fourth state in value of exports. The states in order are: New York, Texas, Michigan and California. Michigan passed California for the first time in 1927, but California at the same time moved ahead of Pennsylvania, thus retaining fourth place it first assumed in 1926.

This state is one of the very great states in industry and agriculture in the country, and with the steadily increased population it is becoming more secure in its position. The development of the state industrially is to be more rapid in the future than it has in the past, for the day has passed when this state depends upon the East for its manufactured products.

Thoughts On Modern

Life

By Glenn Frank

POLITICS AND SALMON

Modern man is a bit tired of politics that spends all its time in high sounding debates about the fortunes and foibles of parties, the emotional vested rights of touchy patriots, and the chess play of patronage for the boy back home. That the trees may bear heavier apples.

That the salmon yield of the rivers may be larger.

That the countryside may be lovelier.

That waste may be eliminated from industry.

That wages may be higher.

That prices may be lower.

That leisure may be longer.

That schools may be better.

Men do not decline to cast their ballots when governments really busy themselves with these things.

The really living enterprises of our governments are found, not so much in the heated arenas of Congresses and Parliaments, as in the quiet bureaus where the new knowledge from the laboratories is being translated into terms that farmer and merchant and teacher can understand and apply to the day's work.

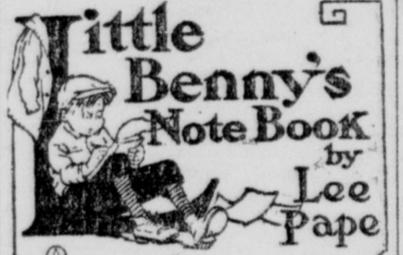

As long as these matters that really determine the tone and temper of life for the average man are controlled and guided by non-political forces entirely outside government, just so long will political indifference grow.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

A CHILD'S GARDEN

If you live where your children can have gardens let them have them. A garden is a fine activity for a child. Digging, preparing the ground, setting seeds, cultivating, weeding, harvesting, as well as the various gardening joys are precious experiences for children. But too often the child's garden experience is more harmful than otherwise.

First he is given the poorest bit of ground, away off back, in the shade, in poor soil, far from water. That won't do. If the gardening is to be a success the conditions must be right. If the child is to get right ideas about gardening, about plant life in general, the conditions must be easier in the suburbs than now.

Take that dirty place on the highway where the neighbors threw what they did not want. Take a few boys and girls in their teens and plant that spot with iris, or sunflowers, or golden glow, or field-lillies. It can be done. We can train children to create beauty spots and to love gardens if we wish to do so. It takes just a little work.

No child can dig and prepare virgin soil for a garden. That must be done by a garden laborer, an adult, whose muscles and mind have been trained to the task. Nor can any child properly prepare soil for seeds. He must be helped with the choice of the soil, with the sifting, the smoothing, and the dampening of it. Again the services of the experienced adult are needed.

All this is very troublesome to the grown-up gardener. The best way out is to share a garden with the children. Let them help the grown-up gardener.

When they can set a plant let them do so; when they can firm the earth about one, let them do that. Talk to them as you work so they will insensibly learn the reason for all the many tedious steps taken. When they are in their early teens, if there is any gardening sense in them, they will show profit from their experiences and want to have the fun of doing things all by themselves. Then give them a little plot of good garden soil, well prepared, and let them go to work. But don't tell a child that he can make a garden of his own back there under the trees where nobody can see his mess and leave him to it. If you do he will never learn to know the joy of a garden. And he will have stored a series of experiences that are not true.

Now Willyum, you read your paper as usual after supper and I'll get along, don't you worry, ma sed, and pop sed. Nothing doing, we'll do them together, shoulder to shoulder, and if there's a little crack now and then, we'll just regard it as incidental music. I wouldn't dream of having your supper spoiled by the thawt that you haff to clean up all alone, he sed, and ma sed. Now Willyum, I'm not thinking anything of the kind in fact as a matter of fact I'm rather looking forward to it with relash, she sed.

Well, if you axually assure me that it will be a plazzur for you, but not otherwise, pop sed, and ma sed. Why yes of course, dont be silly, just go ahead and read your paper.

Wich pop did, looking glad instead of sorry.

New York's cops are complaining because Commissioner Whalen makes them wear Sam Brown belts and Scotch caps at their own expense. If they're not careful he'll order each man to wear a fresh gardenia in his buttonhole every morning.

TERRIBLE EXAMPLE

Judging by what is happening to Lindbergh we are at a loss to understand why anybody else wants to fly the ocean.

How Can We Reduce Interest Rates?

By WILLIAM TRUFANT FOSTER and WADDILL CATCHINGS

Interest is the rent charged for money. Naturally, the rent tends toward the highest point at which it is possible to find trustworthy borrowers for the available supply.

"The available supply!" That is exactly the trouble, according to one of our popular weeklies. "The supply," this paper declares, "is inadequate. Let the Government print more."

From a hundred other quarters comes the demand to speed up the printing-presses and reduce interest rates.

Inflating the currency, however, does not reduce interest rates. In all her history Germany never had as much money, or as high interest rates, as she had immediately following the World War.

In the United States, also, interest rates went up, even though the volume of money increased. Then, after the bubble of monetary inflation burst in 1920, the supply of money was reduced, yet interest rates went down.

Again, we must recall the distinction between money and other forms of wealth. Money, unlike wheat and motor cars, is not easier to obtain simply because the total supply is increased. On the contrary, increasing the supply of money may increase the demand for money. And interest rates depend, not on the supply, but on the relation between supply and demand.

No country can make money cheaper merely by printing a lot of it.
